

The Emergency Outreach and Trauma Response Program accepts MSW interns from the University at Buffalo's School of Social Work. The placement offers experience working in a short-term, crisis capacity with adults with mental illness and issues of lethality. Those interested should follow placement protocol as established by the School of Social Work's Field Education Office. At the present time, all internship spots are filled until the Summer of 2009.